MERCHANT KILLED BY ELECTRIC CAR

Philip Bottigheimer Dies Instantly From Blow on Petersburg Line.

Philip Bottigheimer, a merchant, about fifty-seven years of age, of 2210 Stuart Avenue, was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon at 12:15 o'clock by an electric car on the Richmond-Petersburg division of the Virginia Railway and Power Company, between Stops 8 and 9, about three miles outside of South Richmond. The accident seems to have been unavoidable. Motorman J. L. Ridd was at the wheel at the time, and B. F. Jones was the conductor in charge. A special car was dispatched at once, and the body brought to Morrisette's Undertaking Establishment. County Coroner Loving was summoned, and an inquest will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Both Ridd and Jones were arrested and later released on $250 bail each.

From information gained from Superintendent Bryce and other sources yesterday, it seems that Bottigheimer, just before the fatal occurrence, was seen in the roadway, at that point, a hollow. The road here is particularly open, and not regarded as a dangerous spot, and a thirty-mile an hour speed is generally made. Ridd saw the man at a distance, and blew his warning whistle. He thought the man in no peril. Instead of crossing the open road, Bottigheimer is said to have mounted an embankment, and walked toward the track. He did not raise his eyes, although the whistle was shrieking warning, and the motorman reversed his throttle. Jones, the conductor, saw that the accident was imminent, and turned his head. The man was struck a terrific blow, and hurled many feet to one side. Men rushed to the prostrate form, but he only breathed a short time. He was found to be well-dressed. A gold watch and $55 was on his person. No mark of identification was upon him. An envelope with the name of Mr. Wallerstein was found, however.

When spoken to over the telephone last night, Herman Bottigheimer, his son, said that his father had left home during the morning for his work, and had probably taken a walk out into the country. The dead man is survived by a widow, one son, Herman G. Bottigheimer, a salesman, and one daughter, Miss Caroline Bottigheimer. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock from the Hebrew Mortuary Chapel, and the interment will be made in the Hebrew Cemetery. He was born in Germany.

Court Term Postponed. The regular August term of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals scheduled for next Tuesday, will not be held. None of the members of the court here. The session will probably be held in September.

ALFRED MOSES DIES SUDDENLY

Aged Merchant Passes Away at Pennsylvania Resort.

Alfred Moses, assistant manager of the firm of Walter D. Moses & Co., and one of the oldest citizens of Richmond, died last night at Bedford Springs, Pennsylvania, where he had gone to spend the remainder of the summer with his daughter, Miss Isoline Moses. Arthur Levy, 1014 Park Avenue, received the news over the long-distance telephone. No particulars were learned, but it is believed that Mr. Moses must have died suddenly. When he left Richmond on last Wednesday he was apparently in the best of health. Three children survive—Miss Isoline Moses and Walter D. and Harry M. Moses, both of New York. The funeral will be held in Richmond, at a time as yet to be decided on.

Celebrated Ninetieth Birthday. On the nineteenth of last November, Mr. Moses celebrated his ninetieth birthday. The day he spent at his home at 1019 Park Avenue where he received a continual stream of visitors who called to congratulate him. Mr. Moses had lived in America nearly twenty-five years, having come to this country from London, England, where he was born, and first settled in Lynchburg, where he remained for several years before coming to Richmond. As a member of the home troops he served through the Civil War, and saw much active service in the fighting around Richmond. After the reconstruction era he became a member of the City School Board as secretary and supervisor of buildings. He maintained this position until the days of the readjustment.

Prominent in Business. Mr. Moses first engaged here in the wholesale dry goods business, being at one time associated in this business with the late Moses Milbiser. He afterward identified himself with the firm of Walter D. Moses & Company, an assistant manager. In spite of his advanced years, Mr. Moses had retained full possession of his mental faculties, and continued to take an active interest in the business of his firm and of the city.

LAST WEEK OF DILL CAMPAIGN BEGINS

Democrats of Third District Will Register Their Choice Next Tuesday.

Although Representative John Lamb and Judge T. Ashby Wickham rival Democratic candidates for Congress from the Richmond district, will turn into the home stretch to-day, very few of the voters seem to know that the race has started. The most noticeable thing about the campaign is its apathy.

Under these circumstances it would seem unlikely that a large vote will be polled in the primary election of next Tuesday.

And yet there be those who, when this election is mentioned, put their fingers to the side of their noses and intimate that there will be something doing when the votes are counted. Those who have watched the situation without having gained the information which seems to be in possession of the wisecracks are indeed glad to hear that something may happen after the election, since most certainly nothing has been turned loose prior to that event. At the same time, it is undeniable that a great deal of work has been done by the candidates. It has not been proclaimed from the rooftops, but the highways and hedges know about it.

Some people say that the result will be much more than has been generally anticipated. Others remark that there is a surprise in store. The campaign will end on Saturday night with a joint debate between the candidates before the Clay Ward Actives, in Monroe Hall. It is hoped to get a good-sized audience out on that occasion, and the speakers may say things that will make interesting reading for the closing days of what has been a remarkably quiet campaign.

Postmaster Allan Back. Postmaster Edgar Allan, Jr., has returned from Rockbridge Alum Springs, where he attended the Virginia Postmasters' Convention. Mr. Allan said that this was the best and most enjoyable convention ever held by the Old Dominion postmasters. There were a number of prominent guests of the convention, among them being United States Internal Revenue Commissioner Royal E. Cabell, formerly postmaster of Richmond.

RICHMOND HAVING COOL SUMMER

So Weather Man Says, but Some People Don't Know It.

According to the monthly meteorological summary covering the month of July issued yesterday by E. A. Evans, director of the local Weather Bureau, the weather average for July was not so hot as statistics gathered during the past thirteen years show that July could have been. Some of those who complained so bitterly of the heat last month and those who hastened away from Richmond to seashore or mountains, will be surprised to learn that there was an average daily deficiency in temperature for July of 14 degrees. The highest temperature recorded during the month by the delicate instruments of the Weather Bureau was 92 degrees, on July 12. The lowest was 53 on July 21. The greatest daily range was a rise of 25 degrees on July 22, and the least daily range was on July 18, when it was not straight through, with but a nine degree drop when night came. The normal average temperature for July is 79.2. The amount of precipitation for the month was 6.4 inches, an excess as compared with the normal rainfall for July of 1.98 inches. The excess may be accounted for by a remarkable rainfall on the night of July 17, when a total of 2.41 inches fell, there were seven entirely clear days, six partly cloudy ones, nine cloudy ones, and nine on which there was more or less rainfall. There was hail on July 19 in Richmond, with the usual amount of fog and thunderstorms for this season of the year.

FITZ. LEE CAMP ELECTS DELEGATES

Representatives Chosen to State and National Conventions of Spanish War Veterans.

Fitzhugh Lee Camp, No. 8, United Spanish War Veterans, held a meeting last night and elected Captain George P. Shackelford as delegate from the camp to the meeting of the State Convention of the organization, which will be held in Roanoke on August 15. Captain Shackelford is the adjutant of the Department of Virginia. Lieutenant William H. Kindersperger, Company F, First Virginia Infantry, was elected alternate.

At the same time, Lieutenant Edwin B. Loving was elected delegate to the National Association of Spanish War Veterans, which will meet in Denver on August 29. Captain Thomas R. Marshall, former health officer for the United States Army in the Philippines, was chosen as alternate.

It was decided to have a smoker for the camp as soon as the weather would make such an affair more pleasant. Refreshments will be served. On this occasion the good of the camp and of the veterans generally will be considered and plans will be made for the annual banquet, which will occur in the autumn.

Colonel James Mann to Make Presentation Speech at Versailles.

REPLICA OF WASHINGTON Houdon's Statue to Stand in Palace of French Kings.

For the purpose of making the formal presentation of the replica of the Houdon statue of George Washington from the State of Virginia to the republic of France, the commissioners appointed by the Governor for the purpose will sail from New York to-morrow morning on the Cunard liner Caronia. In the party will be Colonel and Mrs. James Mann, of Norfolk; Senator and Mrs. Don P. Halsey, of Lynchburg, and Senator and Mrs. Floyd W. King, of Clifton Forge. The bronze statue, now in Paris awaiting the ceremonies, will be accounted for by a remarkable correspondence on the subject. The Virginia commissioners have called the object a copy, while the French authorities have consistently denominated it a replica.

The commissioners will arrive in Paris on the afternoon of August 18, after landing in Liverpool and spending a few days in England. The ceremonies of presentation will take place in the palace of Versailles on August 18. The address will be made by Colonel James Mann, chairman of the Houdon Statue Commission.

Formal Acceptance. The statue will be accepted by M. Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the French republic. The figure of Washington will then have its permanent place in the pleasure ground of the Bourbons, the protagonist of liberty standing in the place once paced by Louis the Magnificent.

Addresses will also be made by Senator King and Senator Halsey and by M. Jusserand, the French ambassador to the United States. This not being a national affair, President Fallieres is not expected to be present.

Possibly the actual unveiling will be done by some local descendant of the Marquis de Lafayette, a request of this sort having been made by the members of the commission of Marquis Gaston de Salme de Lafayette, the present head of the family. The services of a young woman are desired for this purpose.

It is probable that later on France will place two busts at the base of the replica of men who fought for American independence. Most likely these will be of Lafayette and Captain Sullivan, the French naval officer, who so gallantly took part in the Revolutionary War.

Hand Badly Cut. Jefferson Hotel Electrician Sustains Serious Fall. Stuart S. Weisiger, electrician for the Jefferson Hotel, and brother of Oscar F. Weisiger, manager of the hotel, met with a painful accident early yesterday morning. Mr. Weisiger was upon the third floor in the act of adjusting a large electric globe. On a sudden he slipped from the step ladder and landed with force upon the floor, the glass breaking into bits and the fragments piercing his hand. He received a deep cut in the palm. He was assisted into the Jefferson Pharmacy and Dr. Hobson summoned. The wound was a nasty one, and a stitch was necessary to hold the flesh together. Mr. Weisiger lives at 110 East Cary Street.

NEW FORGINGS PLANT AT ACCA

Capacity of Steel Foundry More Than Doubled, and Number of Employees Increased.

The new plant of the Richmond Forgings Corporation at Acca was opened yesterday, after having been in course of erection for many months. The new plant will more than double the capacity of the old one at Belle Isle, which will be discontinued.

Among the many manufacturing industries of which Richmond boasts, the plant of the forgings company is in several respects unique. It is one of, if not the finest, of its kind in the United States; it is the only plant of its kind in the South; its business has tripled in the short space of four years' time.

The company manufactures steel forgings for a thousand purposes, the main products being small tools such as wrenches and pliers and parts of automobiles. The steel forgings for many of the leading makes of automobiles are manufactured by the Richmond Forgings Corporation.

Heretofore the company has been content to continue its efforts solely to the manufacture of forgings which were shipped North, where the finishing was done. In the near future the company will do its own finishing, complete equipment for this purpose having been included in the erection of the new plant. The manufacture of small tools will be made a specialty, as there is a great demand for these products, which are now supplied altogether in the North. In Richmond alone there are enough wholesale hardware firms to justify the manufacture of this line of products, and all over the South the demand is large.

Doubles Number of Employees. The old plant at Belle Isle was opened in March, 1906, and was provided with but four hammers, and employed but a handful of men. At the new plant there are fifteen hammers, of the most improved type, and more than a hundred men are employed, the most of whom are skilled workmen who came from the North, this class of labor being practically unobtainable in the South.

The plant has its own water system, and the tracks of both the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad and the Seaboard Air Line pass through the grounds, affording great conveniences in the matter of shipping.

TAYLOR ELECTED FIRE CAPTAIN

Succeeds Ramkey in Command of Engine Company 4.

At a meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners last night the resignation of F. C. Ramkey, captain of Engine Company 4, was accepted, and Captain A. F. Taylor, of Engine Company 4, was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Messrs. Gary, Lecky and Cheatwood, the subcommittee appointed to select a site for erecting an engine house in Washington Ward, reported that a lot at the southeast corner of Tenth and Fairview Streets, had been decided upon. The board confirmed the selection and ordered that the property be purchased and paid for.

The board decided to send Chief Joyner to the convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers, which meets in Syracuse, N. Y., in the latter part of August.

The resignation of W. A. Green, fireman in grade C, of Truck Company 1, was accepted. J. T. Bailey, substitute, was appointed to succeed him.

BUCHANAN LANDS IN COURT DISPUTE

Appeal Granted in Case Involving Charges of Force and Intimidation.

J. W. Harris was yesterday granted an appeal by the Supreme Court in his case against W. M. Cary and others. He complains of the action of the Chancery Court of the city of Richmond in sustaining the demurrer of Colonel Cary, and in refusing him leave to file a supplemental bill.

Harris sets forth that he, with J. Samuel McCue and Caroline H. Harris, of Albemarle county, purchased the boundary of mineral land in Buchanan county. Later a holding company was formed, of which Colonel Cary became a member.

Thereafter, according to Harris, efforts were persistently made to induce him to sacrifice his interest in the concern. Finally he gave up a one-eighth interest.

He desires the contract given by him to be declared null and void, and that Colonel Cary be prevented from disposing of it and be required to return the 166 2-3 shares in the Buchanan Coal and Coke Company, the holding concern.

Harris claimed in his bill that "force, fraud, intimidation and duress" were used in the efforts to get him to surrender his stock. In the answer made by Colonel Cary in the lower court he intimated that such statements were "ridiculous" saying that it was an ordinary business transaction, and that the insinuations of fraud, upon the face of the bill itself, were without the least foundation or support.

Leaves Many Requests. Estate of Police Sergeant Brooks Divided Among Relatives. Joseph A. Purdie qualified as administrator of Robert J. Brooks, late police sergeant. The estate is valued at $3,200. The bulk of the property will be divided among Sergeant Brooks's children, nephews and nieces, his wife having died some time ago.

To Mrs. Jennie Otey Clements, $1,200 is bequeathed; to Annie Louise Otey, $500; Jones A. Otey and John B. Otey, $500 each; Joseph A. Purdie, $500; Elizabeth Eubank Trainham, $500; Mary Ellen Brooks, $500; Martha Jane Eubank, $500; Wyatt Brooks, $100. Furniture and other articles of more or less value were distributed among several relatives of the testator.

Walter L. Dunn qualified as guardian of Lucy E., Ethel W., and Julia A. Dunn.

Joseph A. Purdie qualified as administrator of Jennie Otey Brooks.

Catch Alleged Jail-Breaker. William Allen, alias "Big Boy," and John, son alias John Williams, colored, were arrested yesterday afternoon by Police Officer Warriner as a fugitive from justice, charged with breaking out of jail, where he had been sent for shooting at an officer.

LABOR-DAY PLANS INCLUDE BATTLE

Local Militia Asked to Take Part in Extensive Sham Engagement.

Tentative plans for the annual celebration of Labor Day at the State Fair Grounds, embracing a sham battle, in which the local military commands will be requested to take part. Probably the Howitzers will contribute two pieces, with a complement of men, and make whatever the fair grounds equivalent for a walk-in, ring, with warlike reverberations.

Major L. F. Price, of the First Battalion, First Virginia Infantry, said last night that it was more than likely that most of the members of his command would take part. The officers have for the most part agreed to the proposition, as the companies drill this week, votes will be taken.

The Richmond Light Infantry Blues will also be asked to turn out. The arrangement of the troops will of course depend largely on the number taking part.

In view of the fact that the ground is open, it is hardly likely that elaborate maneuvers can be planned, especially with field pieces. However, there can be plenty of fighting of the kind which will please the audience.

A meeting of the committee on arrangements for the Labor Day celebration will be held to-night at 8 o'clock, in the Labor Temple, at which time the other plans for the affair will be considered. John Hirschberg is the general chairman.

JEWELERS PRAISE SOUTH'S ENERGY

Dabney's Speech Wins Great Convention Over Many Competitors.

Wearing the smile of satisfaction that comes with the knowledge of work well done, William T. Dabney, business manager of the Chamber of Commerce, is home from Detroit, where last week, with A. F. Janke, Jr., and Alderman A. W. Bennett, he secured the National Retail Jewelers' Association convention for Richmond in 1911.

While the fact that the jewelers' convention is coming here next year is by this time generally known, comparatively few people have learned of the spectacular uphill fight the Richmond men put up to secure it. With all the odds against them, and with no one in the world but themselves having any idea that they would be successful, the trio from Richmond won out in a walk.

Odds on Pittsburgh. St. Louis, Denver, Pittsburgh and other cities were in the race for the convention. The odds seem to favor Pittsburgh. The new president of the association, Steele P. Roberts, known to friends as "Tiffany" Roberts, of Pittsburgh, won a pretty good bet to secure the meeting for his city, and in addition the convention committee was also strong for "Smokeville." But in the light of subsequent developments it would seem that all of these things were forgotten by the delegates when "Colonel" Dabney began to tell of Richmond.

When it became evident that there was to be a hot fight the St. Louis and Denver delegates withdrew from the race, leaving Richmond and Pittsburgh to go it alone. According to a Detroit newspaper account it was that the Richmond men cut loose with a burst of Southern oratory that "got everybody going to Virginia."

What the Papers Said. Says the Detroit Free Press: "The Virginia delegate, Mr. Janke, brought a committee of two with him from the State who did the work. This committee was composed of W. T. Dabney, of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, and A. W. Bennett, of the City Council. Previous to their appearance Richmond was the next thing to a dark horse. Mr. Dabney was the first to speak. After complimenting the retiring president, Mr. Archibald, on his term of office, and extending his compliments to the new incumbent, the Southerner told the convention of the attractiveness of his native State. When the colonial had finished telling them about Richmond it became evident that Pittsburgh didn't even have a chance. When the vote was taken it showed 81 for Richmond, as against 34 for Pittsburgh."

Commenting on the victory the Detroit News says: "Neither St. Louis nor Pittsburgh won out in the five-cornered race for the next convention of the National Retail Jewelers' Association as had been expected. The jewelry dealers will go to Richmond, to the surprise of many. No one except men from Virginia expected to be victorious until the subject was discussed. Then the Virginians opened with a burst of oratory that won. Colorado, Missouri, Pennsylvania and the other States had no show whatever."

While the fight was at its hottest a big dealer from Cincinnati rose from his seat, and addressing the convention, stated that he could not help but express his admiration for the enterprising and bold display by Richmond. He considered Richmond a typical Southern city, he said, and never again would he believe that the South was not up and doing, and abreast of the times.

The convention will meet in Richmond the first week in August, 1911. The association has 3,500 members, scattered over the entire country. More than 500 delegates attended the convention in Detroit, and it is expected that fully twice that number will come to Richmond next year.
